

FAI exhibits at the "Journée des Associations" in Berlin

Berlin (05.06.2010) - For the second year in a row, the Fondation AMAN-International (FAI) was invited to participate in the "Journée des Associations" organized by the French Cultural Center (Maison de France de Berlin).

In 2009, the French Institute of Berlin initiated an important event in order to bring together organizations working in the socio-cultural field to present themselves to the general French-speaking public living in Germany's largest city, but also to all Berliners.

Since 2009, the FAI has been involved in this great adventure, which was renewed in 2010. Alongside associations such as Farafina e.V. (Afrika-Haus Berlin), the French Abroad, the French of the World, RFI (Radio France Internationale) and many others, the AMAN-International Foundation hosted a stand where it was able to present its activities to numerous visitors who were very interested in its various social and cultural programs and projects.

Among the personalities that FAI welcomed at its stand, we count His Excellency Xavier NIODOGO, Ambassador of Burkina Faso, and his wife Noëlie NIODOGO who came to greet this event. They exchanged with the FAI's Founding President and encouraged once again the FAI whose work they have been following closely and admiring for several years now. During the day, the Ambassador of Haiti, Jean-Robert SAGET, a great friend of FAI, joined them at the Foundation's stand.

The 2nd edition of the "Day of Associations", a brilliant idea of Carine DELPLANQUE, Director of the French Institute of Berlin, saw the participation of a greater number of exhibitors and visitors than last year and was also punctuated by brilliant cultural and artistic performances that were much appreciated at the large hall of the Maison de France, located on the legendary boulevard "Kurfürstendamm" in Berlin.
