

FAI receives the "Best Social Work Foundation Award

Abidjan (14.07.2007) - The AMAN-International Foundation (FAI) has received a special distinction from the National Union of Youth of Côte d'Ivoire (UNAJECI) for its actions in the direction of the population and youth in particular. On the initiative of UNAJECI and in partnership with the Ministry of Youth and Leisure, a ceremony of distinction called FEMETA (Festival of Merit and Talent) was organized. On this occasion, the AMAN-International Foundation was awarded the "Prize for the Best Social Work Foundation".

This important ceremony held at the Palace of Culture in Abidjan was an opportunity for the National Union of Youth of Côte d'Ivoire to award distinctions to several personalities and organizations recognized in the eyes of the population and the Ivorian youth in particular for their concrete actions in the fields of assistance and help to the most disadvantaged people.

On this occasion was invited the Foundation AMAN-International whose President Founder Marie Ginette AMANI has spared no effort as usual to support the youth. The President made the trip with a strong delegation of her organization to show her support to this brilliant initiative.

At the time of the awarding of the prizes, it is under the applause of approval and the satisfaction of the public that the AMAN-International Foundation was invited by the intermediary of its highest official to go up on the podium to receive the "Prize of the Best Foundation of Social Works" which was given to it by the representative of the Minister of Youth and Leisure.

This news has greatly pleased the leaders of the Foundation whose President Founder said that this award was perceived both as a recognition of the populations and youth in particular for which his foundation is committed. She stressed that this recognition was an honor because it reflected the impact of the actions of her foundation towards these targets. This is a strong message to continue our commitment, she concluded.
